ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Overview

Academic dishonesty – being untruthful, deceptive, or dishonest in academic settings in any way– subverts the University mission, harms faculty and students, damages the reputation of the University, and diminishes public confidence in higher education. All members of the university community share the responsibility for creating conditions that support academic integrity. For particular conditions, detailed descriptions of violation types, faculty and student guidelines, information related to the Academic Integrity Board composition and roles, hearings, and appeals, please review the full policy on the university's website:

- Academic Integrity (https://policies.niagara.edu/view_policy.php?id=63)